Take-Home Messages

■ To help learners develop the abilities to do scientific inquiry, teachers need to give students responsibility for using the process skills of science.

■ Teachers can make small shifts in existing activities to help learners strengthen the process skills needed for scientific inquiry.

■ Lessons can be modified in specific ways to achieve particular purposes.